The Concept of Resurrection in Tolstoy's Thought

Spiritual Resurrection vs. Literal Resurrection

Tolstoy's engagement with the idea of resurrection is multifaceted, intertwining Christian theology with his personal quest for moral and spiritual renewal. - Literal Resurrection: Traditionally rooted in Christian doctrine, this refers to the resurrection of Jesus Christ and the hope of life after death. - Spiritual Resurrection: For Tolstoy, this is an ongoing moral and spiritual awakening, a renewal of the soul that occurs within individuals through sincere repentance, moral action, and spiritual growth. It signifies a transformation from a life of sin and ignorance to one of enlightenment and moral integrity.

Resurrection emerges as a dominant motif throughout Tolstoy's later writings, especially in his philosophical treatises and novels like Resurrection (1899).
