- Urban areas: 50 km/h unless signs specify otherwise. - Rural roads: Typically 80 km/h. - Highways: Up to 100 km/h, with some sections allowing higher speeds. Question: What should a driver do when approaching a school zone during school hours? Answer: Reduce speed to the posted limit, often lower than the general limit, and remain vigilant for children crossing.

Violating traffic rules can lead to fines, points on your license, or even disqualification. Understanding the consequences encourages compliance.

Common Violations and Their Penalties

- Speeding: Fines and points - Overtaking illegally: Heavy fines or license suspension - Driving without a valid license: Criminal offense - Not wearing seat belts: Penalties in line with traffic law
