Originally commissioned by the Goodman Theatre in Chicago, the play opened Off-Broadway before transferring to Broadway, where it received critical acclaim and multiple awards, including the Pulitzer Prize for Drama in 1984. The title itself references two real estate developments—Glengarry Highlands and Glen Ross Farms—serving as symbols of the dreams and illusions sold to clients, and by extension, the American Dream itself. The setting, a cluttered and oppressive office, encapsulates the theme of entrapment and moral compromise.

Glengarry Glen Ross is structured around the interactions of four real estate salesmen—Ricardo "Ricky" Roma, Shelley Levene, James Lingk, and Dave Moss—each grappling with their own moral dilemmas and desperation to succeed. The play unfolds over a single day, heightening the intensity as characters face mounting pressure from their manager, John Williamson, and their own internal struggles. Main Plot Points: - The salesmen are competing to close deals and secure leads, with the promise of a Cadillac for the top seller, a Cadillac for the second, and a "motivational" speech for the third. - The pressure to perform leads to unethical tactics, including bribery, deception, and theft. - The plot culminates in a burglary of the office, where the sales leads are stolen, revealing the extent of moral decay among the characters. - Several characters face the consequences of their actions, with some facing arrest or shame.
