One of the most controversial decision points was the decision to invade Iraq, which was justified by the belief that Saddam Hussein possessed weapons of mass destruction (WMDs).

1. Intelligence and Justification: Bush's administration argued that Iraq posed an imminent threat, citing intelligence reports about WMDs and links to terrorism.

2. Decision to Proceed Without Explicit UN Authorization: The U.S. led a coalition to invade Iraq in March 2003, despite significant international opposition and without explicit approval from the United Nations Security Council.

Impact: The Iraq invasion deeply affected U.S.-Middle East relations, led to prolonged conflict, and significantly influenced global perceptions of U.S. foreign policy.

3. Establishing the Department of Homeland Security

In response to the 9/11 attacks, Bush made a critical domestic security decision:

1. Creation of DHS: In 2002, Bush signed legislation establishing the Department of Homeland Security, consolidating multiple agencies to better coordinate national security efforts.

Impact: This policy reshaped American education but also faced criticism for narrowing curricula and overemphasizing testing.

5. Economic Policies During the 2008 Financial Crisis

The global economic downturn posed a critical challenge during Bush's final years in office.
